Biography

Camille Konopka is an insurance coverage attorney in Atlanta. She provides coverage advice to insurers on commercial general liability and commercial litigation matters, and defends insureds in litigation.

Camille joined Fields Howell as a Summer Associate in 2023 before returning to the firm full-time following her law school graduation. During her summer with Fields Howell, she conducted legal research, drafted memos, and assisted with reviewing documents in major litigation matters. Before joining Fields Howell, Camille served as a legal intern with the Atlanta Volunteer Lawyers Foundation and as a landlord-tenant dispute mediator with the Superior Court of Fulton County.

Camille earned her Juris Doctor from Emory School of Law in 2024. There, she was a Staff Member of the Emory Corporate Governance Accountability Review and was a member of the Asian-Pacific American Law Student Association. She earned her undergraduate degree from the University of Southern California, graduating cum laude with a Bachelor of Arts in Sociology and a minor in Consumer Behavior. Camille is admitted to the State Bar of Georgia.
