Fields Howell LLP

Aviation Transactions & Business Counsel

Protecting Clients in High-Value Aviation Transactions

Aviation transactions involve both significant sums of money and unique legal considerations that extend far beyond ordinary asset transfers. Our attorneys have worked on transactions involving single aircraft and entire aviation businesses.

We assist clients in navigating FAA approval requirements. Beyond regulatory concerns, our attorneys bring experience negotiating complex commercial agreements and addressing the unique operational realities of aviation businesses. This combination of legal knowledge and industry insight enables us to anticipate potential challenges and protect client interests.

By combining careful attention to detail with industry-specific experience, Fields Howell ensures that aviation transactions proceed smoothly and that our clients are well-positioned for long-term success.
