Fields Howell LLP

Construction Law & Litigation

Building Confidence Through Legal Precision

With decades of experience in construction-related matters, Fields Howell attorneys understand the real-world pressures and liabilities faced by developers, contractors, and insurers. Our construction law and litigation practice handles a broad spectrum of disputes, including breach of contract claims, construction defects, professional negligence, and warranty issues. We represent clients in both active litigation and pre-litigation settings, always working to resolve matters efficiently and cost-effectively.

We have successfully handled claims involving acceleration and delay damages, lien and bond disputes, liability for on-site injuries, and complex defect allegations that implicate multiple subcontractors and design professionals. Our attorneys also assist clients with drafting, reviewing, and negotiating construction contracts, ensuring that legal language protects against common pitfalls and limits unnecessary exposure.

In addition to litigation support, we advise clients on minimizing risk throughout the life of a construction project. Whether the issue arises from unexpected delays, unforeseen site conditions, or disputes over workmanship, we work closely with stakeholders to resolve matters swiftly, preserving both profitability and professional reputation.

Attorneys

Our Construction Law & Litigation Team

- Christopher R. Brooks
- Marc A. Brotman
- Paul L. Fields, Jr.
- John P. Golden
- Curtis T. Graves
- Emma Han
- Christopher S. Kwelty
- Victoria Lageyre
- Alexander D. MacMullan
- Julieth A. Monroy

- Christopher S. Myles
- Joshua Myles
- Katarina Neyra
- Nicholas R. Patricios
- Adam R. Rivera
- Tyler Bryant Walker